DOCTOR-PATIENT RELATIONSHIP IN CHIROPRACTIC

CHIROPRACTIC

It is important to acknowledge the differences between the health care specialties of Chiropractic, Osteopathy and Medicine. Chiropractic care seeks to restore health through natural means and without the use of medicine or surgery. This approach to health care gives the human body maximum opportunity to utilize its inherent recuperative powers in the treatment process. The success of the Chiropractic Physician's procedures often depends on environment, underlying causes, physical and spinal conditions.

ANALYSIS

Chiropractic Physician conducts a clinical analysis for the express purpose of determining whether there is evidence of Vertebral Subluxation Syndrome (VSS) or vertebral Subluxation Complexes (VSC). When such VSS and VSC complexes are found, Chiropractic adjustments and ancillary procedures may be performed in an attempt to restore spinal integrity. It is the Chiropractic premise that proper spinal alignment maximizes nerve transmission throughout the body and gives the body an opportunity to use its inherent recuperative powers. Due to the complexity of the human body, no physician can promise you specific results for Chiropractic treatment. The results obtained from Chiropractic adjustments depend upon the inherent recuperative powers of the patient's body.

DIAGNOSIS

Although Chiropractic Physicians are experts in musculo-skeletal treatment and diagnosis, the VSS and VSC, they are not internal medicine specialists. Every Chiropractic patient should be aware of his own symptoms and secure other opinions if he has any concerns as to the nature of his total condition. Your Chiropractic Physician may advise you to seek a second opinion from another professional, but you are responsible for the final decision on such matters.

INFORMED CONSENT FOR CHIROPRACTIC CARE

A patient seeking treatment from the Chiropractic Physician authorized the Chiropractic Physician to care for the patient in accordance with the Chiropractic treatment protocols. Chiropractic adjustments or other clinical procedures are usually beneficial and seldom cause any problems for the patient. In rare cases, underlying physical defects, deformities or pathologies may render the patient susceptible to injury. The Chiropractic Physician, of course, will not give a chiropractic adjustment or perform other procedures if he is aware that such care may be harmful to the patient. It is the patient's responsibility to disclose his health problem to the Chiropractic Physician, especially latent pathological defects, illnesses, or deformities which would otherwise not come to the Chiropractic Physician's attention. The patient should seek the treatment from the health care specialist who is qualified to provide the proper diagnostic and clinical procedures for the patient's problems. The Chiropractic Physician is licensed to diagnose and treat musculo-skeletal problems and routinely works with health care providers from other disciplines to help provide prompt and effective care for his patients.

RESULTS

The purpose of Chiropractic services is to promote natural health through the reduction of the incidence of VSS or VSC in Chiropractic patients. Since there are so many variables, it is difficult to predict the time schedule or efficacy of Chiropractic treatment. Sometimes the patient's response to Chiropractic treatment is immediate and phenomenal. In most cases there is a more gradual, but quite satisfactory response to Chiropractic treatment. Occasionally, the results obtained from Chiropractic treatments are less beneficial to the patient than anticipated by both the Chiropractic Physicians and the patient. Two or more similar conditions may respond differently to the same Chiropractic care. Many patients who do not respond to medical care find quick relief from their symptoms through Chiropractic treatment. Other conditions encountered by the patient respond better to medical care. The fact is that the science of Chiropractic and medicine may never be so exact as to provide definite answers to all health problems. Both disciplines have made great strides in the diagnosis and treatment of health problems and will continue to improve the prognosis for patient care in the future.

The patient should discuss any questions or problems with the doctor before signing this statement of policy.

The undersigned acknowledges that he has read the foregoing statement and that he understands the nature of the care that he will receive from the Chiropractic Physician.
